

GIANTS GOT TO MAYS FOR THIRD VICTORY TODAY

BLOOD TEST ON COW IMPRACTICAL LOCAL VETERINARIAN SAYS

Judge Leech of Amboy Springs Surprise in Unusual Case.

That a blood test to determine the ownership of a two-year-old cow which is claimed by two Sublette township farmers, is possible but not practical, was the statement made this morning by Dr. Fred B. Jones, local veterinarian and specialist in cattle. Dr. Jones when questioned as to the practicability of such a test replied that in his opinion blood tests were only theoretical and were not practical.

That tubercular or anaemic conditions might exist in either of the cows claimed to be the mother of the steer, was another opinion of the authority. Dr. Jones also added that many changes take place in the blood of cattle in a period of two years and that a microscopic test of the blood of either of the animals which is claimed to be the mother of the steer, would doubtless prove fruitless. The veterinarian was of the opinion that it would be very difficult to find a specialist who would assume the responsibility of making such an investigation.

Renewed interest in the case of the Sublette steer, which has aroused considerable interest throughout the state because of its extraordinary features, was added late yesterday afternoon, when Judge William L. Leech, Amboy attorney and member of the state court of claims, came to Dixon and entered his appearance in the case.

Judge Leech appeared before Justice Grove Gehant as "a friend of the court" and also appearing in behalf of the steer. He cited two famous cases recently decided in favor of the innocent offspring of famous sires, holding that the blood test was unnecessary to determine the parentage of the steer. He explained to the court that in entering his appearance, he desired to cast no blot or stain upon the steer as to its parentage because of its possible standing in later life, when he explained that it might be brought in direct contact with the Armour's, Swifts or Wilsons of Chicago and Kansas City.

He also cited to the court the fact that there was but one other case on record in the United States where the parentage of the offspring was in doubt this being the famous and historical case of George K. Harris alleged child of Eliza in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Justice Gehant has taken the case under advisement and will render his decision as to ownership Monday.

POLITICAL WAR IN ROCK ISLAND BROUGHT MURDER

Connor Looney Shot as He Sat in Auto
Friday P. M.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Connor Looney, known as John Looney, Jr., died last night of gun shot wounds received yesterday afternoon in a gun battle in the heart of the city between underworld political factions. Looney was seated in an automobile in front of a hotel, accompanied by his father, John Looney, publisher of the Rock Island News, when fired upon by occupants of two passing automobiles. The lives of hundreds of citizens were menaced by the shower of bullets. All of the participants in the battle were armed.

The fight was the climax of a war that has been raging between factions in connection with an agitation against vice conditions in the city. Among those arrested in connection with the battle are A. W. Billburg, Dan Drost, former associate of Looney, and Geo. Holsapple.

A feud had existed for months between this trio and the Looneys and the clash was not unexpected. Looney, in his paper, the News, printed weekly, has been championing the city and county administration both of which have been under public fire for failure to suppress commercialized vice.

NO SHIPS CARRYING LIQUOR CAN ENTER ANY PORT IN U. S.

Sweeping Decision is Given
By Attorney General
Daugherty.

Washington, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The executive branch of the government was proceeding to the immediate enforcement today of the interpretation of the prohibition amendment and the enforcement act by the legal branch as prohibiting the transportation or sale of liquor on American vessels, wherever operated, and the presence of liquor on foreign ships anywhere within American territorial waters.

Acting on orders issued by President Harding immediately after publication yesterday of the opinion handed down by the Department of Justice Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board was moving to stop at once the sale or transportation of liquor on government ships, while Secretary Mellon was proceeding to give due notice to private owners, the prohibition as to both to take effect at once or as soon as vessels reach home ports. The treasury secretary also was charged with the formulation of regulations for the enforcement as to foreign ships, to begin as soon as such regulations can be promulgated.

The next development awaited in the situation, as foreseen by both Attorney General Daugherty and Chairman Lasker, was a move by foreign lines to secure a final determination in the court of the application of American dry laws to foreign ships entering American territorial waters. In the opinion these were construed to include waters not only within the three mile limit of continental United States, but also of the Philippines, the Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Alaska, the Panama Canal Zone being exempted because of its specific statute.

With the government already advised that a case is about to be filed which would bring the issue as to foreign ships to the Supreme Court, Chairman Lasker was of the opinion that the foreign lines would first seek to restrain enforcement of the law by an injunction, which he said it was reasonable to suppose the courts would grant.

Hurts U. S. Shipping

Mr. Lasker foresaw not only a stay of enforcement as to foreign ships by this court, but also expressed the opinion that regardless of the decision of the Supreme Court, American ships would be placed at a permanent disadvantage, citing as an illustration that even though the interpretation as to foreign ships were upheld it would not prevent their selling liquor up to the three mile limit, where remaining stocks could be dumped overboard.

The Shipping Board chairman further expressed the opinion that the enforcement would undoubtedly hamper the board's efforts to build up American shipping to the Orient and South America. The disadvantages which he believed would result to the American merchant marine would make more necessary, he said, enactment of the ship subsidy bill if the American flag was to stay on the high seas.

The opinion handed down by the Attorney General in response to a request from Secretary Mellon last June, was based as to its interpretation regarding foreign ships on recent decisions of the Supreme Court upholding the authority of federal prohibition agents to prevent the transfer of a liquor cargo from one foreign ship to another in American ports.

HUGGINS' HOPE

MAYS-YANKS

DO YOU KNOW?

(By Dixon Chamber of Commerce)
Do you know that Dixon is the home of the Clipper Lawn Mower? It was invented by R. K. Ort and started in Morristown, Tenn., in a small experimental shop, the first year only twelve mowers being made, the second year sixty-three and with improvements each year the third year ten hundred seventy-one were turned out and the inventor was satisfied that he had a successful and useful machine. One of the reasons for locating in Dixon was the fact that R. K. Ort shipped mowers from Pennsylvania to California and the express cost more than the mowers. R. K. Ort wrote to B. F. Shaw, the postmaster, asking if he could obtain a small factory for his purpose. He was informed he could rent one and made the change in August, 1903. This made the location of the Clipper in the middle west, dividing the freight more evenly between the east and west which has worked out successfully.

The first year one-half of the old telephone building was used but was found not large enough and in July, 1905, the plant was shut down and having received an offer from Streator, Illinois, R. K. Ort intended to move his plant to Streator. Mr. Backus, railway agent, together with members of the Booster Club offered to raise $6,000.00 for R. K. Ort to keep the proposition in Dixon. A site was selected near the Illinois Central and Chicago & North Western Railways and a plant was started. As the Booster Club did not fulfill its promise this plant again nearly went to Streator until A. E. Tayman and R. K. Ort went out and raised $3,000.00 issuing six percent preferred stock. Since that time, March 15, 1906, the factory went to work and continued until placed on the non-essential list in 1915.

Clipper lawn mowers have been sent to every country in the world except Greenland and a large export trade is being done yearly. Being on the non-essential list in 1915 increased loss was suffered by the company but it continued to pay 6 per cent on the stock for the two years of the war. The Universal Oats Company needed more room and the Ort factory was sold to them and at this time the stockholders and R. K. Ort took over the full ownership of the Clipper Mower. He purchased the Dixon Normal School building and formed The Clipper Lawn Mower Company owned by R. K. Ort and E. K. Ort, sons.

The Clipper factory, built to normal, will produce 25,000 mowers per year with the present equipment. On account of the desire of the public for a revolving mower, the Clipper Lawn Mower Company made this type of mower and called it the Dixon which is fast gaining favor with the trade.

This plant is well known as $55,000.00 have been spent in advertising and under normal conditions it will be one of Dixon's busiest industries.

"JEALOUS HUSBAND" STRANGLER OF GUY DERNIER, THEORY

Diary, Containing Addresses of Women, Gives Clue.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 7.—Suspicion as to the identity of the stranger who had come to Los Angeles and other southern California cities for the summer, was what led Bell to this city, he said, as suspicions pointed to "a jealous husband," as the man who strangled the clubman and then threw his body into the water in an effort to make it appear he had died from accidental drowning.

A diary said to have been kept by Dernier and which contained the temporary addresses of Phoenix women who had come to Los Angeles and other southern California cities for the summer, was what led Bell to this city, he said, as suspicions pointed to "a jealous husband," as the man who strangled the clubman and then threw his body into the water in an effort to make it appear he had died from accidental drowning.

Addresses found in Dernier's diary included those of women in Los Angeles, Santa Monica, San Diego and Santa Barbara, California, and Douglas, Florence and Tucson, Ariz. Opposite one name was the notation: "Husband works nights."

Dernier formerly was employed as a department manager for a large business house in Chicago.

Brother Defends Him.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Oct. 7.—Reports that Guy M. Dernier kept a diary in which he listed names of women, and the tales that he obtained large sums from them are myths, his brother, Roy Dernier, said.

"My brother may have had affairs with several women—he was a man of the world and had no little wings sprouting—but he did not make a business of black mailing women," Mr. Dernier said. "I believe that the story of the diary is a deliberate falsehood."

Had Tuberculosis.
Guy Dernier left Chicago six years ago suffering with a tubercular infection of the throat, specialists here having given him six months to live.

"Politics may have played a part in his death—or jealousy, or revenge," I don't know," Mr. Dernier continued. "I say politics because of his connection with the government; revenge because he may have had an affair with a woman."

Guy Dernier for four years was with the Internal Revenue Department in New Mexico and Arizona.

No Confirmation Given of Rumor in the Porte.
London, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—A report that Sultan Mohammed VI of Turkey had abdicated this morning was received early this afternoon by the Russian delegation here in a wireless despatch from Moscow. There is no confirmation of the report, but Moscow is believed to be in close communication with Constantinople.

The Moscow dispatch which repeated a message from Angora, says that upon his abdication the Sultan named as his successor his cousin, Abdul Medjid Effendi, who will be known as Medjid II.
Since the successful campaign of the Turkish nationalist army against the Greeks, there have been several reports of the abdication of the Sultan. In reply to these reports he declared in a letter to a friend on September 30:
"I shall continue to discharge my holy duties until the end. When the Nationalists enter Constantinople I shall have something pertinent to say to them."
Nevertheless press dispatches have continued to intimate his intention of abdicating in favor of his cousin, Abdul Medjid Effendi.

PIONEER OF LEE CO. SET FORTH BELIEF IN FUNERAL ORATION

Gustavus Selig Prepared His Own Funeral Sermon.

The feature of the funeral service of Gustavus Selig, pioneer Lee county citizen, Thursday afternoon was the reading of a funeral address written by the deceased for his obsequies. County Superintendent of Schools L. W. Miller read the oration, which was as follows:

In compliance, many years ago, with a friend's request to give expression of my religious views, I wrote the following, which time and age have not been able to change. Granting for myself, as well as others, the undisturbed liberty of expressing these opinions, however at variance with others, they are based upon mature reflections, observation and experience of Nature's laws, and feeling confident that the power we call God will not enter into judgment for the expression of an honest doubt made in the light God gave him.

God!

Firmly believing in that great power that rules and controls the Universe, and fully aware of the deep-seated impression that word makes on the minds of the people, I would substitute the word "Force" or "Spirit" in its stead, as the word "God" in the general acceptance of the term is misleading, possessing too much of a personal meaning, clothed with all the attributes that flesh is heir to, a being of man's own making, instead of that all-powerful, all-pervading force, filling all space and permeating every particle of matter throughout the Universe, controlling and guiding the movements of the solar system, down to the planet upon which we live, a something outside of the reach of human understanding that the mind from the beginning has been trying to grasp.

It is my firm belief that matter is eternal, co-existent with Spirit, and they cannot be separated one from the other; the most conclusive evidence to my mind, lies in the fact that matter is the agency whereby Spirit demonstrates its existence accepted as the material for that creative force throughout Nature.

Future State.

No subject from history's early dawn has occupied man's mind more than this, and been a bone of contention from man's earliest conception of the term, resulting in strife and warfare that has not even lost much of its bitterness unto the present day. It is perhaps on this subject that my views differ from the generally accepted idea of the masses of a future state. As the soul is indestructible on leaving this form and leaving all that was near and dear to it behind, it may be compelled by laws of eternal love and affection to linger around the loved ones for an indefinite period of time. There will be, however, no inactivity, but like all created things, subject to the laws of evolution, in the course of time lose its identity and finally merge into that great ocean of Spirit from whence it originally emanated. I am aware that this theory will meet with opposition. To the minds of some this would appear to be a sameness or repetition of life in some form or other here, but to the thinking mind I present this solution of those conclusions. As the vapor arises to the clouds to return back to earth again in the form of rain to impart moisture to the parching earth, nourishment and life to the plant and flower, the surplus will by the natural law of gravitation, find its way down the decline into the rivulet, thence into the stream and finally into the ocean, its original starting point.

Future Punishment.

I believe in salvation by character; I believe in reward and punishment as a condition and not as a locality, that reward and punishment are intertwined with the deed committed, subject to our conception of right and wrong, and consequently will be meted out as soon as man comes to the proper understanding of the act committed. I refute the doctrine of one man's physical suffering atoning for another's moral transgressions; it is, in my opinion, unreasonable, unjust and impossible. It is equivalent to making someone responsible for another's moral obligations, and has in my opinion, based on experience and observation, been fruitful of more mischief than benefit to mankind. This doctrine is a direct antagonism to Nature's laws, laid down by Nature's God, that will punish the offender justly but sternly, be the deed committed knowingly or ignorantly.

God of Old Testament.

I have looked upon the writings of the Old Testament as a history of those ancient people containing laws adapted to their needs and wants, and a revelation of their God suitable to the conditions and age they lived in.

KILLIFER'S MOTTO: GIVE BOYS A CHANCE

secret of his success. His reply was like him. "Ain't none," he said, but when you tie him down he continues:

"I broke in with the St. Louis Browns in 1909. Jimmy McAleer was manager. I was a green kid from Texas. The old boys buffeted me around. They wouldn't let me catch, practice batting or do anything. In plain words, they didn't want any greenhorns on the club.

"I went my way, like other youngsters. I was fired, but came back. And when I came back I said to myself—'Hell, if ever you become manager you're going to look out for the youngsters.

"I became a manager, and I decided that the kids on my club were going to develop. They have."

Him whom we call "Our Father." I have looked upon Him as the embodiment of that Divinity that stood in the closer relationship and harmony than any mortal being before or since, that by His teaching and example man might be led up and onward to a purer, unselfish life, and thereby enter into closer relationship with that great Infinite source from whence all blessings flow. To this extent has He been my Redeemer, but under no circumstances should I look upon Him as a scapegoat to bear my sins.

With these conclusions, the result of exercising my reasoning faculties, aided by the experience of ripe old age with that reverence due from a creature to its creator, endeavoring to live at peace with fellowmen, to the best of my ability discharging my duties toward God, family and fellowmen, doing right in the light given me, I am willing to face the future, confident that the Great, All-Creating Power has provided a sphere, suitable and adapted to the condition of every soul.

Claiming no superiority of intellect, if I have been guilty of mistakes while among you, cover them with the broad mantle of charity, and call them mistakes of the head but not the heart, while I bid you a happy Farewell!

COME TO FERGUSON'S STORE ANY DAY NEXT WEEK

Why isn't a kitchen range more rampant than a novel? It is when you hear and see how a great range with a reputation comes into existence. It is time well spent to attend this demonstration. Besides, you have a chance to obtain the choice of two fine sets of cooking utensils, absolutely free, if you decide to replace your old cook stove with a Great Majestic next week instead of later.

Christ: New Testament.

I admire and revere the teachings of that great and noble Christ of the New Testament, who by His purity and love for poor, erring humanity and devotion to His mission, pointing out to man the way of right living and moral rectitude in precept and example, and finally gave His life as the crowning act of His love and compassion for poor humanity, as the greatest gift from the hands of

Scott Started Scoring

The Giants scored their runs of the third game in the third and seventh innings. The phantom opened the third with a single over second. Bancroft then sent a hot grounder to Ward, who kicked it into center. The blow might have gone for a hit, as Ward had to make a great dive to get behind it, but the scorers called it an error. It sent Scott to third. Groh then bounced a high one to Hoyt, who tossed to Dugan, catching Scott on the way home. Bancroft got to third and Groh to second while the out was being made. Rennie scored on Frisch's sacrifice fly to Witt and Groh counted on Meuse's single to right center.

Frisch's single to right in the seventh after two were out, scored Bancroft, who had walked and advanced to third when Groh singled on a hit and run play.

Huggins tried to stave off defeat by using Elmer Smith and "Home Run" Baker as pinch hitters for Ward and Hoyt in the last moments of play, but the spook's curves were too much for them. Sam Jones pitched the final inning for the Yankees.

New Yorkers Don't Give a Damn, White Tells Clubmen There

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Oct. 7.—Residents who heard Governor Henry H. Allen of Kansas and William Allen White of "Henly and Me" fame praise each other publicly at the Lotus club last night took stock today of trenchant appraisal of New York by the editor.

"The trouble with this part of the country," Mr. White said, "is lethargy. You don't give a damn. You stand for fellows in politics here that we out in Kansas would throw out by the scruff of the neck and the slack of the breeches. If it is a strike, you let 'em strike.

TWILIGHT: THE LUXEMBOURG—

Twilight, the Luxembourg: the gardens murmured

By cautious lavender mist; cool broken bells

Muffling the hour in metal; and then the shells

Of silence reverberating that dim world

Evening * * * One reluctant bird

As with a drowsy echo, shivers, tells

Of querulous mate it is not drawn, so quells

Its doubt in hers; and nothing else is heard.

And nothing else is heard; the moon stares hard;

The leafage is a shaggy, slumbering frown;

The gravel that had been so lately scarred,

By rapid feet dwindles to shadowy brown;

Only as in a bright perpetual daze

The wild, gaunt horses in the fountain gaze.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY HAD MEETING—

The American Legion Auxiliary held a spirited meeting on Tuesday afternoon in American Legion hall.

A large number of members turned out to hear the reports read of the state convention of the American Legion and their auxiliaries held at Rock Island, Sept. 25, 26 and 27.

At this time three delegates were sent from the Auxiliary Post No. 12 of Dixon, Mrs. Bunnell, president; Mrs. Strub, past president, and Mrs. Ray Curran, secretary of the local order, were sent as delegates.

Mrs. Curran gave a splendid report of the work done by the auxiliaries of the different posts.

Stating the number of members in the state as 15,000 Auxiliary workers, while Dixon can only boast of 124 members in good standing in Post No. 12 of Dixon. It is hoped that all eligible members will respond and join our order.

All are proud of our boys, even to the hand boys who brought home the two hundred dollar prize as the second best appearing in the state. If the boys had had the patronage due them the past summer, and a few more dollars for new uniforms, they would no doubt have won the first prize of a large amount. But like everything else for the boys, it is all "tin money."

A doughnut sale for Saturday was decided on.

The ladies are planning to send a barrel of apples to the sick soldiers in a hospital in the near future and a barrel stands in Rowland's drug store so all may donate what they can for the sick and convalescent boys of the World War.

It is hoped all who have plenty of apples will respond.

LETTER TO RED CROSS COMMUNITY NURSING ASSN.—

The following letter has been received by the Red Cross Community Nursing Association:

"Our Field Nursing Representative, Miss MacKay, is planning to be with you from Oct. 8th to 11th.

"We hope you will talk over all of your nursing problems with her and that she will be able to help you solve them.

"We will await with a great deal of interest the result of Miss MacKay's visit with you.

Every person who has paid five dollars or more toward this movement is a member of the organization. We earnestly urge each one to be present at this meeting.

Some Newsy Notes of Yesterday's Game.

New York, Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Six of the nine runs scored by the Giants since the series began were driven home by Irish Meusel. He got only one hit a day, but each came when it was of utmost value.

Christy Mathewson, playing the reporter's role in this series, warns up his writing arm before the game starts by complying with requests for autographs on baseballs, score cards, programs or whatever comes handy.

Many a fan who craved a place among the 2200 unreserved seats couldn't get near the park yesterday in the last 45 minutes before starting time. Police scattered in a loose barrier, a block from the Polo Grounds, turned back everyone who had no ticket after the upper grandstand and bleachers had been tightly packed.

Jack Dempsey was on hand again. On his way to his seat Dempsey went out upon the field to exchange epigrams with John McGraw. Ten thousand fingers pointed him out to twenty thousand eyes.

Babe Ruth couldn't hit the ball beyond the infield. Three times Scott pitched to him with such exceedingly skill that the home run slugger topped the ball so that it took a high bound and was fielded between first and second. The only time the Bambino got on base was when Scott curved the ball into his ample anatomy.

BIRDS FLY SOUTH

Jack Frost is beginning to get in his work up north in Canada. Birds soon fly south. These migratory birds are mysteries of science.

How do they know when to start and where to go and how to find their way?

Bird migration "is a very old habit, an inborn instinct which was developed ages ago, and which manifests itself year after year in a uniform manner and without any remarkable close conformity to immediate conditions."

This is Prof. J. Arthur Thomson's explanation in his "Outline of Science." In other words, the annual southward flight of birds is a habit developed gradually through thousands of years.

One scientific explanation is that the Great Ice Age, when glaciers moved down from the north, drove birds south. When the ice slowly retreated, they flew back to their old home in warm summer, but returned to the new homes in winter.

One guess is as good as another.

Ever wonder how fast birds travel when they migrate south? Some of them reach a speed of more than 50 miles an hour. When weary, as you have noticed, they camp for a rest—
"hang around" a certain locality for days or so.

Ducks travel 44 to 53 miles an hour and small song birds 20 to 37 miles an hour, according to Colonel Meinert-zogen's observations. The bird named the "swift" has been known to pass an airplane doing 68 miles an hour, and reaches a speed of more than 100 miles when flying with all its energy and skill.

Hunters, now outfitting their shotguns, soon will be shooting wild geese and ducks.

The geese travel in a sort of V formation, one side longer than the other, like a broken wishbone. Shoot the leader and the formation closes up, the next bird in line taking the fallen leader's place.

Shoot the leader of some kinds of wild ducks and, say the Ojibway Indians, the flock flutters to the ground preferably a swamp, and presently flies after much chattering in which they seem to elect a new leader.

This is the sort of adventure, romance and mystery that flies over our heads and exists all around us in nature. And yet some people frequently yawn, bored with life, and complain that they can find nothing interesting.

YOU'D LIKE HIM

New ideas are nearly as scarce as hens' teeth. Once in a while you meet an individual with magnetic temperament, fairly bubbling with strikingly new ideas. Good company, mighty good. You "can sit and talk to him by the hour and never get tired."

Such a man is Prof. A. M. Low England's great wireless expert. Like all Simon-pure radio fans, his interest is more in the future than the present.
That is, he inclines toward clairvoyant personality.

We present his most striking ideas.
Don't rely on your senses, says Low, for they are liars. He twirls his cigarette in a circle. "That looks to your eyes like a circle of fire, doesn't it? But you know it is not."

The eyes lie. They see incorrectly.
Speech will become unnecessary in the future. And people will converse with each other by some form of suggestion, electrical or otherwise. So predicts Low. He comments:

"After all, if I want to convey a thought to you, it seems rather crude that before I can convey the idea that is in my mind I have to waggle my mouth about and puff irregular gusts of wind through my lips to produce sounds.

Senses are so unreliable, says Low,

that there are hundreds of colors that no human eye can see. And a dog can hear a whistle of a pitch inaudible to man.

We "know" a lot of things that aren't so, says Low. For instance, hit an electric light bulb with a hammer and you think the steel comes in contact with the glass and breaks it.
Not so. Before the steel reaches the bulb, the glass is shattered by the cushion of air compressed and driven in front of the hammer. This is proven by the ultra-rapid movie camera, invented by Low.

Low is convinced that there will be many big wars in the future. But the armies, he predicts, will be invisible to one another, never meeting in open contact. Killing will be done by artificial lightning, blasts of terrible heat and wireless-controlled bombs.

Then he switches to music, basis of which is rhythm, and says: "Our sense of rhythm comes from the time when we were some form of primitive life on the seashore waiting for the returning tide to give us our food."

Gosh! Pleased to have met you,
Mr. Low. Call again!

MAN'S RIVAL

A shipment of iron telegraph poles goes to South Africa. Wood is abundant and cheap, but it would be quickly destroyed by the powerful jaws of the terrible White Ants.

In Ceylon Black Army Ants march on the warpath. A scientist counts them, finds 300,000 soldiers, in one army, marching in companies, about 20 abreast, with officers running up and down the line and keeping order.

Let a man or horse break a leg and fall in the path of the Army Ants, and in a few hours only a skeleton is left.

These and other marvels of the insect world are described in Prof.
J. Arthur Thomson's fascinating
"Outline of Science," a four-volume education without a headache.

Thomson tells about the Burying Beetles. When a corpse is to be buried, one of these insect grave-diggers rounds up a squad of helpers instead of tackling the job alone.

Among locusts the wingless young form a living bridge over a stream until their brothers and sisters cross overhead. They change places, relieving the bridgers when fatigued, so that few drown.

Certain bees remain in the hive as housekeepers, receive honey as the workers bring it in, then store it in the comb cells. Other bees do their share by standing, fanning the air with their wings to ventilate the hive.

All these manifestations of "mutual aid" or the "social instinct" have the rudiments of definite civilizations.

While insects work by instinct and man by intelligence, the two methods are strikingly similar. Man calls it instinct largely because it does not please his vanity to credit any creature except himself with intelligence.

We are important on earth, that's true. But we are only a part of a far more important system of nature.
Each thing that lives must exist with a definite purpose.

POISON GAS FOR BOLL WEEVIL

In spite of the effective work done by the United States department of agriculture, cooperating with southern states and cotton growers, the boll weevil persists in its ravages.
Checked in some localities, it makes devastating headway in others.

Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries now proposes that poison gas be used in the fight. Poison gas has been used effectively in certain campaigns against other insect pests and against rats, bats, gophers and other vermin.
If gas will kill the boll weevil, it should by all means be employed on as large a scale as possible.

The public has mistakenly imagined, in reading hopeful reports, that the boll weevil was losing ground.
The chief of the federal bureau of entomology gives the extent of its damage in the last five years at about $2,000,000,000. The total area invaded by the boll weevil, up to 1921, was 600,000 square miles. The injury done touches the whole cotton-using public as well as the cotton grower. The whole public should feel a keen interest in this new suggestion for fighting the menace.

GATS

Pistol toting is the curse of America, says Chief Magistrate McAdoo of New York City. "There are more persons who carry pistols in New York and Chicago than in the whole of Europe."

McAdoo declares that the police's greatest problem is the free sale and use of firearms.

Then why not stop the sale, make it a penitentiary offense to possess or carry a revolver? If the penalty were stiff enough, and enforced, it would counteract the householders' disad-

BRINGING UP FATHER

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

(No. 72)

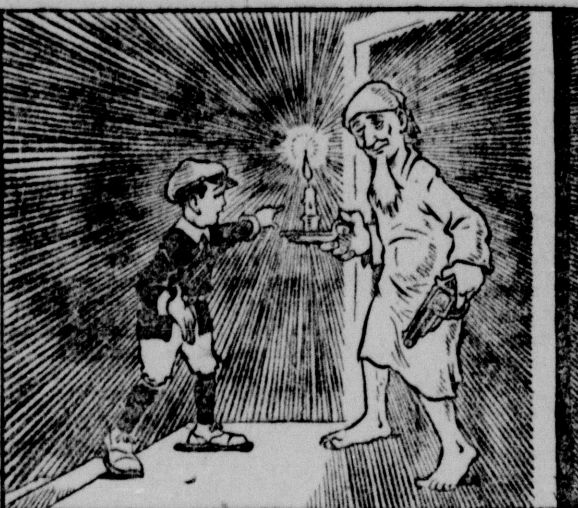

BY ELTON

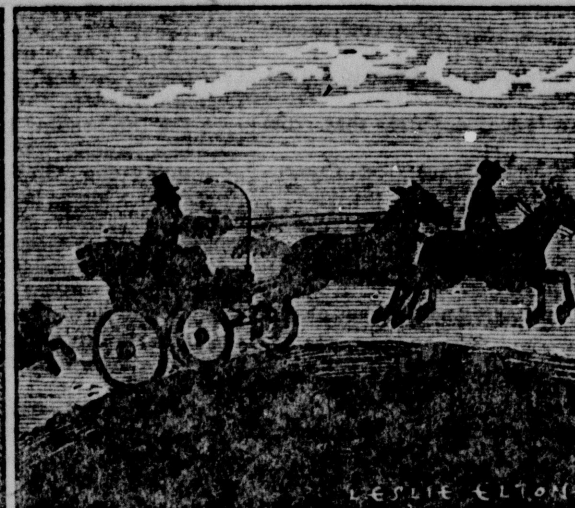

Jack sped through the night, as fast as he could, with little regard for his safety. His only thought was to bring the doctor back to the old lady.

At last Jack reached the doctor's home and saw a light burning in an upstairs window. "He's home," said Jack to himself. "Now to get him up."

After repeated knocking, the old doctor came down to the door. Jack told him of the poor widow's condition. "I'll be ready in a jiffy," said the doctor.

The old fellow then quickly dressed and hitched up his horse and buggy. Shortly the return ride was started. Continued in the next chapter.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

If you worry about being healthy,
the chances are you won't be.
Don't make hard work of it. Lay down certain rules and follow them
the best you can until you get used to it.

The mind has a strong effect on the health of the body.

If you have a fit of anger, or a spell of worry, or hate, or envy, you will be more fatigued than if you had done a good day's work.

If you do physical work all day long read at night or play cards, to work the mind. If you work in an office during the day, you will need physical exercise at night.

In choosing your foods, don't always choose the soft ones. Hard foods, such as crusts, toast, hard fruits and nuts make you use your teeth. This keeps them from decaying.

If you build up your body, your chances of "catching" disease will be at a minimum.

Here are seven rules that will help
to keep your health good:

Have fresh air where you live and work, breathe deeply, avoid eating too much, eat slowly, stand, sit and walk erect, work hard, but play and rest, too, and be cheerful and learn not to worry.

vantage in not having a pistol for protection. Then, too, the home could keep a rifle or shotgun, weapons which crooks cannot carry concealed.

DEADLY

While we Americans live in fear of pistols in the hands of crooks, good citizens of France are alarmed by the discovery that anyone over there can purchase a tube of typhoid or diphtheria germs. For 20 cents, enough microbes to kill hundreds.

The possibilities are enough to make one's hair stand on end. "Gentleman Girard," who died in Paris prison a year ago, was accused of murdering people with germs after insuring them heavily. You'll see this duplicated one of these days on our side of the ocean.

CANADA

American tourists this year take $100,000,000 to Canada and leave it, according to Jack Canuck's government authorities.

The Canadian Rockies are pulling visitors as strongly as ever. But the big jump in tourist traffic is in and near Quebec and Montreal, where liquor flows freely. It is not impossible that prohibition in the United States will wind up by the wets migrating northward for good. At any rate, Yankee thirst will help pay off Canada's debt.

MOVIES

A new process for making moving pictures in all colors of the rainbow is being financed by William Hamlin Childs, big man in the dye industry.
He uses a new process, one film pasted over another, in two layers.

The cost is said to be just about double that of the black and white film, but film cost is only a fraction of the expense of making and marketing a movie.

Within 10 years the colored movie will be in general use and black and whites will be used only for artistic effects.

FOG

Autumn brings fog. Dr. W. J.
Humphreys of the weather bureau in Washington says a dense fog in a space 3 by 5 by 10 feet contains 60 trillions particles of moisture, yet these condensed would make only one drop of water.

Most problems are like fogs—look bigger than they really are. Determination and courage will condense them.

Incidentally, a cubic inch of dense fog contains 20,000 particles of moisture.

One of the people, in a letter published in the "I saw" column of a metropolitan daily, wrote: "I saw two policemen on duty picking mushrooms with uniforms on." The writer might be a success in bacteriology.

A scientist says that the way to live to a great age is to maintain a balance among work, rest and sleep.
The age will be happier if a bank balance is maintained also.

The doctors say Gabriel D' Annunzio will live if he keeps quiet for a few months. We should think keeping quiet that long would kill him.

"There now," he said to Light

"But wait a minute. Here are

"When the Twins come along in

"Then you jump in and bring the Light Fingers grinned.

"Yes, sir! I'll do all you say, sir.
If there's anything I like to hear, it's

THE STEEPLE-JACK

By Berton Braley

The Steeple-Jack has lots of fun,
He gets the air, he gets the sun,
And when he's perched upon a steeple,
He can look down on other people.
But thought upraised above the mob
The Steeple-Jack is not a snob.

Of money, he is seldom shy,
For like his work, his pay is high;
No Steeple-Jack can you accuse
Of narrowness, for all his views
Are broad. He sees much farther than Most any ordinary man.
Thus, while so loftily he swings,
He overlooks the little things.

He always is, it would appear,
Right at the height of his career.
Or one might say, with more discretion
Up at the top of his profession;
And as his duties may require,
He goes up high to earn his hire.
Enough of puns like this, I know
This form of wit is rather low.

CLASS DOINGS

Although it is rather late for an account of the Senior Party, held Friday evening, Sept. 29, we feel we should do justice to all high school activities and it's "better late than never."

The students arrived about 8 o'clock, and enjoyed the large part of the evening in dancing to the good music of Rice's orchestra.

In order to add something new, and interesting to the party, Howard Hall, a local radio dealer, consented to install a set and entertain with some "old time" music. Howard endeavored untiringly throughout the evening to fill the room with music from the air, which, under favorable conditions, is very easy to do, but, due to the lack of a power tube, one of the instruments, which was broken a few days before, and the temporary aerial which was erected in a hurry for the purpose, results were very poor in comparison to those he usually obtains at his home and did not do justice to the high quality set which was used during the evening. Gilman Calkins, Clarence Hill and Geo. Luckey assisted Howard in installing and operating the outfit.

Very fitting refreshments were served about 11 o'clock which consisted of apple pie, a la mode, and hot chocolate. Soon after, the students began to depart, remarking that it was a very enjoyable evening for all.

This is on the assembly room board:

Freshman Party
Oct. 20
All Come

Mr. Lancaster caught a number of Sophomores gazing in on the Freshman class meeting Wednesday night. Needless to say they made a hasty exit.

The Junior Class had a meeting on Monday after school and preparations were forwarded for the party Friday. Committees altered and other business attended to.

"A special train will leave on track No. 3 at Dixon gym station at 7:30 Friday night. We shall be very glad to have you as a passenger. We hope you will be there promptly." Be where promptly? At the Junior party of course! And they were there—practically all of the class of '24 and the faculty, their guests. Stops were made on this special excursion train at the hunting ground, the orchard and many other delightful places. Many unique games were played and dancing was much in favor. Refreshments consisted of sandwiches, pickles, ice cream and cake. The gym was artistically decorated with strings of Japanese lanterns and streamers of crepe paper in class colors. A prominent feature was a large electric sign emblazoned, "Class of 1924." Everyone hated to leave but the moment ended as per social regulations. This party added a big feather to the cap of the Junior class of D. H. S.

This program was very interesting and unusually well presented.

Shorthand notes were being transcribed in class, when one of the students read: "Few men die completely of old age." It should have been "comfortably."

Mr. Weiss' Farm Crop Class took a trip to Peter Hoyle's farm Friday morning where they selected seed corn for use in the laboratory. "Some very good seed corn was found," is the report.

One of Mr. Weiss' classes went to Mr. Scholl's farm Wednesday, where they witnessed a hog dip, used to clean hogs of lice, scurvy, and the like. It was a very interesting and instructive trip.

"It pays to advertise," So Mrs. White says. At least, the turtle of the zoology class was found.

The American History classes have been studying the Declaration of Independence this week and have learned many new things concerning that famous document.

Mrs. Lazier has been showing the Latin classes pictures of Greece, Rome and beautiful Italy. This adds a great deal to the interest of the subject.

The Economics classes have subscribed for the Literary Digest for ten weeks.

Miss Ashton is contemplating putting some seniors in the Freshman hospital division of English.

Byron has completed the study of addition in Commercial Arithmetic and now labors over the theory of finding the Greatest Common Denominator.

The Typewriting averages were put on the board this week. Some were good and others not so good.

GENERAL NEWS

Our many readers will be glad to know that Mr. Stearns likes his new position in Fairfax, Ia. very much. As usual, he is very busy and his music classes are overflowing. Mr. and Mrs. Stearns have bought a home in Fairfax.

Lucille found it almost impossible to keep awake Friday morning. Was Rudolph so appalling that you had to stay and see him twice?

Each student received a fire prevention blank Wednesday with the request to answer the questions concerning fire prevention in the homes. This seems to be a move in the right direction for in this manner information can be obtained from the majority of the homes in the city.

"Them was the days," says our Lavere. He was seen on College Avenue this week enjoying the excitement of top-spinning.

Mr. Potter and Mr. Lancaster were seen coming out of Jimmy Cledon's Candy Shop Thursday evening. In Mr. Potter's hand was a large sack which was thought to contain candy but, on closer examination proved to be a bottle of C12H22O11. Ask a chemistry student.

The high school and several of the grades were entertained Monday morning by a violin recital by Mr. Bergh a talented artist. Among his numbers were Grieg's "To Spring," Chopin's "Maiden's Wish," a "Romance," a "Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2," and "My Old Kentucky Home." Everyone was delighted to hear this music of real worth played by one who thoroughly understood it. The school will certainly welcome the chance to hear Mr. Bergh again sometime. Mr. Farney was the able accompanist.

See Edith Grampp in "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," to be released soon.

WHY TEACHERS GO MAD
Cleo amused herself and several others by cancelling names in a study period Tuesday.

Byron Etnyre, John Egler, Sebre Lowell and Harry Kerz were among those who enjoyed beauty sleeps in a study period Monday.

Some one copied a theme from some one else in economics and Miss Scott was forced to reveal the fact that she recognized it as the "twin brother" of one which was handed in in the other class.

In a history test, Nova Scotia was spelled Nova Scotia. Noova Scotia, Nova Skoshia and other ways too numerous to mention.

It would be well for some of the Freshman boys to spend some time on history instead of going nutting. Maybe history is harder to absorb than those nuts.

Roberta Sample recently was qualified for the annual gum chewing contest. We wonder who furnishes the gum.

Who gave Miss Marks the lovely bouquet that she exhibited on her desk Wednesday.

COURTING AND ESCORTING
A green button was the cause of Kenyon's losing the use of his dad's car. Why? Well, you see, Mr. Segner found it in the car and it didn't belong to any one in the family. And so, well, you know the rest of the story.

Gladys Akeman and Richard Forbes were having an interesting conversation on the stairs Wednesday noon. What was it about?

Cleo was met Friday night about 7:30 p. m. by a Senior girl who asked her where she was going. She said she was going home from the library but at that time some one else arrived on the scene. The Senior said, "Good night," and followed along after Cleo and her companion until they went into the show. Evidently the poor fellow didn't know the way home.

Mary, that ring is "some" ruby. Do all Ashton fellows give such pretty ones?

Ans. Drop the Sophomores and go for older game.

We wonder who brought Helen home in his "Durant" Tuesday night.

Paul and Helen have their program arranged.

We all wonder what could be so interesting up opposite the cement factory to keep Harriet and Tuffy up there in the Ford Coupe till almost noon last Sunday.

Edith is gathering more speed right along. A Senior will escort her home from the Junior party. Don't give you' right name, Sebre.

The Freshies aren't so slow after all. They are making dates with their girls already for the party. Overheard Eloise say she had two chances already!

It will be a very important and interesting note when Edith Ayres gives one "Yes," to her gallant escorts for the night of the Sophomore party.

Goldie Buzard and Stanley Burd enjoyed a ride in Stanley's "fif" one noon last week. Goldie says she just loves to ride in it.

That fickle, fickle Sebre! Sunday evening he was with Edith and then the first thing Monday morning he was sitting with Edith and he whispered to Hazel all the next period.

A Famous Invention That Makes The Brunswick a Super-Phonograph

The Ultra

The exclusive all-record reproducer, a Brunswick invention. It plays ALL records at their best, with the proper needle, the proper diaphragm. Not an attachment, but a built-in part.

NO one feature of the Brunswick Method of Reproduction has done so much to revolutionize people's ideas of the difference between phonographs as the Ultra.

It was one of the many Brunswick superiorities that attracted us.

The Ultra is an exclusive Brunswick idea, covered by patents.

At a turn of the hand it plays all makes of records—not an attachment, but a part of the design. The Ultra obtains better playing results.

But this is not the only advantage. It is counter-balanced—the only scientific reproducer that cushions the path of the needle by proper suspension.

This means an end to "scratching" noises. It means bringing out the hidden beauties of the record. It means a longer-lasting record, one that retains its newness.

If The Brunswick had no other advantages over ordinary phonographs, this one feature should decide you in its favor.

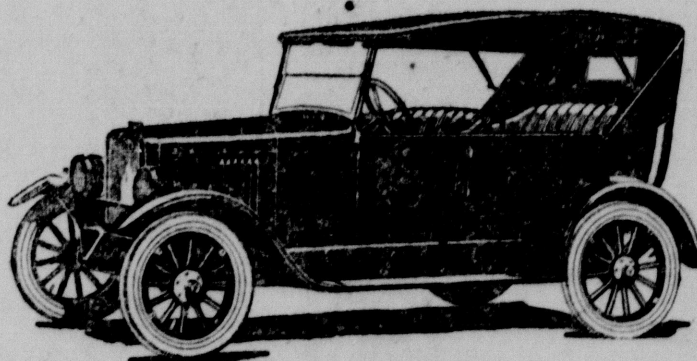

But there are many other exclusive features. We want to point them out to you, so that you can make intelligent comparisons. You buy only one phonograph—you might as well take time to investigate—find out before you decide.

Let us also play some Brunswick Records for you, so that you can become acquainted with finer recording.

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS
©1922 GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The great crisis in JAMES DARRAGH's attempt to gain possession of the flaming jewel and restore it to the beguiled.

COUNTRESS OF ESTHONIA, was at hand. Facing him in the moonlight, an automatic in his hand, a sworn declaration to kill him on his lips, was

MIKE CLINCH, who would stop at nothing.

The flaming jewel was first stolen from the countess by Quintana, the great international thief, and then from Quintana by Clinch, who had taken it to his camp in the Adirondacks, where he lived with his beautiful stepdaughter.

EVE STRAYER, Darragh, working at Clinch's under the name of HAL SMITH, learned that Quintana's gang had arrived to steal the gem from Clinch. His plans were upset when he was recognized as a former officer with the American troops in Russia. Clinch immediately forced him at the point of an automatic into the woods. They stopped by the side of a bottomless swamp.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER IV

ON the edge of the sink-hole they halted. Smith turned and faced Clinch.

"What's the idea?" he asked with a quaver.

"Was you in Russia?"

"Yes."

"Was you an officer?"

"I was."

"Then you're spyin'. You're a cop."

"You're mistaken."

"Ah, don't hand me none like that! You're a State Trooper or a Secret Service guy, or a plain, dirty cop. And I'm a-going to croak you."

"I'm not in any service, now."

"Wasn't you an army officer?"

"Yes. Can't an officer go wrong?"

"Soft stuff. Don't feed it to me. I told you too much anyway. I was rabbin' drunk. I'm drunk now, but I got sense. D'you think I'll run chances of sittin' in State's Prison for the next ten years and leave Eve out here alone? No. I gotta shoot you, Smith. And I'm a-going to do it. G'wan and say what you want."

"If you think there's some kind of god you can square before you croak."

"If you go to the chair for murder, what good will it do Eve?" asked Smith. His lips were crackling dry; he moistened them.

"Sink holes don't talk," said Clinch. "G'wan and square yourself, if you're the church kind."

"Clinch," said Smith unsteadily, "if you kill me now you're as good as dead yourself. Quintana is here."

"Say, don't hand me that," retorted Clinch. "Do you square yourself or no?"

"I tell you Quintana's gang were at the dance tonight—Piquet, Salazar, Georgiades, Sard, Beck, Jose Sanchez—the one who looks like a French priest. Maybe he had a beard when you saw him in that cafe washroom."

"What!" shouted Clinch in sudden fury. "What yeh talkin' about, you poor dumb ding! Yeh fixin' to scare me? What do you know about Quintana? Are you one of Quintana's gang, too? Is that what you're up to, hidin' out at Star Pond. Come on, now, out with it! I'll have it all out of you now, Hal Smith, before I plug you."

He came lurching forward, swinging his heavy pistol as though he meant to brain his victim, but he halted after the first step or two and stood there, a shadowy bulk, growing enraged, undecided.

And, as Smith looked at him, two shadows detached themselves from the trees behind Clinch—silently, silently glided behind—struck in utter silence.

Down crashed Clinch, black-jacked, his face in the ooze. His pistol flew from his hand, struck Smith's leg; and Smith had it at the same instant and turned it like lightning on the murderous shadows.

"Hands up! Quick!" he cried, at boy now, and his back to the sink-hole.

Pistol leveled, he bent one knee, pushed Clinch over on his back, lest the ooze suffocate him.

"Now," he said coolly, "what do you want of Mike Clinch?"

"Who are you?" came a sullen voice. "This is none of your bloody business. We want Clinch, not you."

"What do you want of Clinch?"

"Take your gun off us!"

"Answer, or I'll let go at you. What do you want of Clinch?"

"Money. What do you think?"

"You're here to stick up Clinch?" inquired Smith.

"Yes. What's that to you?"

"What has Clinch done to you?"

"He stuck us up, that's what! Now, are you going to keep out of this?"

"No."

"We ain't going to hurt Clinch."

"RIGHT-O! WE'LL MAKE HIM TALK FIRST AND THEN SHOVE HIM IN."

"You bet you're not. Where's the rest of your gang?"

"What gang?"

"Quintana's," said Smith, laughing. A wild exhilaration possessed him.

"Turn your backs and sit down," he said. As the shadowy forms hesitated, he picked up a stick and hurled it at them. They sat down hastily, hands up, back toward him.

"You'll both die where you sit," remarked Smith, "if you yell for help."

Clinch sighed heavily, stirred, groped on the damp leaves with his hands.

"I say," began the voice which Smith identified as Harry Beck's, "if you'll come in with us on this it will pay you, young man."

"No," drawled Smith, "I'll go it alone."

"It can't be done, old dear. You'll see if you try it on."

"Who'll stop me? Quintana?"

"Come," urged Beck, "an' be a good pal. You can't manage it alone. We've got all night to make Clinch talk. We know how, too. You'll get your share."

"Oh, stow it," said Smith, watching Clinch, who was reviving. He sat up presently, and put both hands over his head. Smith touched him lightly on the shoulder and he turned his heavy, square head in a dazed way. Blood striped his visage. He gazed dully at Smith for a little while, then, seeming to recollect, the old glare began to light his pale eyes.

The next instant, however, Beck spoke again, and Clinch turned in astonishment and saw the two figures sitting there with backs toward Smith and hands up.

Clinch stared at the squatting forms, then slowly moved his head and looked at Smith and his leveled pistol.

"We know how to make a man squeal," said Harry Beck suddenly. "He'll talk. We can make Clinch talk, no fear! Leave it to us, old pal. Are you with us?" He started to look around over his shoulder and Smith hurled another stick and hit him in the face.

"Quiet there, Harry," he said. "What's my share if I go in with you?"

"One-sixth, same's we all get."

"What's it worth?" asked Smith, with a motion of caution toward Clinch.

"If I say a million you'll tell me I lie. But it's nearer three—or you can have my share. Is it a go?"

"You'll not hurt Clinch when he comes to?"

"We'll make him talk, that's all. It may hurt him some."

"You won't kill him?"

"I swear by God—"

"Wait! Isn't it better to shoot him after he squeals? Here's a lovely sink-hole handy."

"Right-o! We'll make him talk first and then shove him in. Are you with us?"

"If you turn your head I'll blow the face off you, Harry," said Smith, cautioning Clinch to silence with a gesture.

"All right. Only you better make up your mind. That cove is likely to wake up now at any time."

grumbled Beck.

Clinch looked at Smith. The latter smiled, leaned over, and whispered:

"Can you walk all right?"

Clinch nodded.

"Well, we'd better beat it. Quintana's whole gang is in these woods, somewhere, hunting for you, and they might stumble on us here, at any moment." And, to the two men in front: "Lie down flat on your faces. Don't stir; don't speak; or it's you for the sink-hole. . . . Lie down, I tell you! That's it. Don't move till I tell you to."

Clinch got up from where he was sitting, cast one murderous glance at the prostrate forms, then followed Smith, noiselessly, over the stretch of sphagnum moss.

When they reached the house they saw Eve standing on the steps in her night-dress and bare feet, holding a lantern.

"Daddy," she whimpered, "I was frightened. I didn't know where you had gone."

Clinch put his arm around her, turned his bloody face and looked at Smith.

"It's this," he said, "that I ain't forgetting, young fella. What you done for me you done for her."

"I gotta live to make a lady of her. That's why," he added thickly. "I'm much obliged to you, Hal Smith. . . . Go to bed, girlie."

"You're bleeding, dad?"

"Aw, a twig scratched me. I been in the woods with Hal. G'wan to bed."

He went to the sink and washed his face, dried it, kissed the girl, and gave her a gentle shove toward the stairs.

"Hal and I is sittin' up talkin' business," he remarked, bolting the door and all the shutters.

When the girl had gone, Clinch went to a closet and brought back two Winchester rifles, two shotguns, and a box of ammunition.

"Goin' to see it out with me, Hal?"

"Sure," smiled Smith.

"Aw' right. Have a drink?"

"No."

"Aw' right. Where'll you set?"

"Anywhere."

"Aw' right. Set over there. They may try the back porch. I'll just set here a spell, n'then I'll kind er moosey 'round. . . . Plug the first fella that tries a shutter, Hal."

"You bet," he muttered, "she is a lady, so help me God."

ALL BIG TEN TEAMS EXCEPT ILLINI IN OPENINGS TODAY

None of Them to Meet Other Conference Teams, However.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Pre-season practice on the most of the football camps of the Big Ten ended today with light drills in preparation for the kick-off tomorrow.

With the exception of Illinois, western conference eleven goes into action tomorrow. None of them, however, meet other teams of the Big Ten.

There was a let up of hard scrimmage in most camps last night, but the Illinois, Chicago and Iowa eleven were worked under full steam.

Captain Dave Wilson of the Illini was knocked out last night in a collision with Cole while catching a punt. The varsity broke up a series of Iowa plays as executed by Illinois freshmen but the yearlings in turn repeatedly stopped varsity attacks.

Ohio Star Ineligible

Ohio State, which will meet Ohio Wesleyan at Columbus tomorrow, suffered a serious blow when Noel Workmen, considered as probable quarterback selection, was declared ineligible on technicalities.

Director Staggs and his assistants drove the Maroon eleven hard up to the last minute in preparation for tomorrow's conflict with Georgia.

Northwestern concentrated on the forward pass in anticipation of an aerial attack by the Beloit eleven at Evanston.

Michigan hopes were raised when it was announced officially that Eddie Johns, veteran lineman, was eligible for varsity service again. The Wolverines encounter Case at Ann Arbor tomorrow.

Coach Spaulding has had so much difficulty in perfecting Minnesota's forward wall that he had made no definite selections for the Gopher game with North Dakota.

Dedicate Wis. Stadium

The Badgers expect to dedicate the new Wisconsin stadium with Carleton as the first opponent of the season. To guard against other injuries to his eleven, Coach Richardson confined practice the last two days to light signal drill.

A short scrimmage was the order of the day for the Indiana varsity.

The Hoosiers who will clash with De Pauw, have a long list of cripples which is worrying the coaches.

The Purdue eleven has shown considerable improvement during the last week and Coach Phelan felt better satisfied over prospects on the eve of tomorrow's game with James Millikin University of Decatur, Illinois.

Intensive drills continued at Iowa. Iowa will meet Knox in the opener.

M. E. BIBLICAL INSTITUTE HAS NO BUILDINGS

Must Raise Funds Before Sept., 1923, or "Get Out."

Princeton, Ill.—Garrett Biblical Institute, a seminary of the Methodist Episcopal church with 400 students, the largest Methodist theological school in the United States, is without a building for teaching, according to a statement made by Dr. Charles M. Stuart, Evanston, president of Garrett Biblical Institute at the Rock River conference in session here this morning.

Dr. Stuart said: "By a strange run of circumstances one of the oldest theological seminaries of the country is without a building of its own in which to teach its 400 students and unless a building is provided by September, 1923, classes will have to be conducted under the open sky."

"This school, Garrett Biblical Institute, a seminary of the Methodist Episcopal Church, until a few years ago had sufficient facilities to take care of its students and to house them as well. In 1914 Heck Hall, its one dormitory, was completely destroyed by fire. Shortly after in order to accommodate Northwestern University, upon whose campus Garrett is located, Garrett arranged to substitute for its leasehold, a piece of land on the same campus a few hundred feet north. The agreement included the sale to Northwestern University of Memorial Hall, the building in which Garrett students have received instruction for nearly 40 years, with the condition that this building would be vacated by Garrett in August, 1922.

"Garrett thereupon prepared its campaign for funds, but was forced to postpone its activities from time to time because of war and other campaigns and especially to give way to the great Centenary movement of the Methodist church. August, 1922, arrived, but Garrett was not ready to vacate Memorial Hall. The University, understanding the situation, graciously extended to Garrett permission to occupy Memorial Hall at a small rental for another year with the provision, however, that under no condition would this permission extend beyond September, 1923.

"The result is that Garrett Biblical Institute has no building of its own in which to conduct its classes and at the time of this writing not sufficient funds to complete the erection of a new building. Ministers and laymen, of the church are just becoming aware of Garrett's needs and plans are now being developed to provide for the completion of a class room building in time to accommodate the classes of the fall quarter of 1923."

Thinking of Tomorrow

Q If by some magic the curtain of the future might be drawn back and you could see life as it will be ten or twenty years from today—where would you be?

Q You know the answer. The men and women who will then have the most independence and influence in our community will be the ones who today think and plan most wisely for the tomorrows—and hold themselves ready to take advantage of every opportunity that comes.

Q Nothing will help you more, five or ten years from now, than the dollars you can save by starting today—and you can save best by getting some bank to co-operate with you. As members of the Federal Reserve Banking System we are prepared to co-operate with you in every way. Let us show you how to save and to make your money work for you.

Outlook Improved in Region Swept By Forest Fires

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 6.—A decided feeling of optimism prevailed throughout most sections of the northern Minnesota forest fire zone this morning. Fire fighting crews were able to make considerable progress yesterday and last night, aided by the foggy weather and decreased wind velocity.

No new outbreaks had been reported early this morning. Several crews reported that during the night they had the upper hand on fires which had been threatening to get beyond control. Fire breaks have been improved in nearly all sectors.

Lloyd and Comrades to Appeal to Supreme Court of the Nation

Chicago, Oct. 6. — William Gross Lloyd, wealthy communist, and seventeen comrades under sentence for violation of the Illinois "overthrow act" of 1919, plan to carry their fight against the constitutionality of the law to the United States Supreme Court according to their attorneys.

Lloyd and his fellow members of the communist labor party yesterday were denied a re-hearing by the Illinois Supreme Court, which last June affirmed their conviction in August 1920, of conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the government.

Unless saved by executive clemency or an adverse opinion by the United States Supreme Court, Lloyd and his comrades must serve prison sentences ranging from one to five years. In addition, fines were imposed on Lloyd and four others.

Carter's Creek, Tenn. — "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. BEBAN DENIES HE CALLED ALL FAIR ONES DUMB

Film Star Explains What He Meant to Convey.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago Oct. 6.—George Beban has expressed amazement at being quoted as saying 80 per cent of the motion picture actresses are beautiful, but dumb.

Writing to the Chicago Tribune, which published the interview, Beban said he did not intend to convey any impression reflecting on the intelligence of film players. The letter was written from St. Louis.

"I distinctly recollect that your interviewer asked me whether I believed that this new idea of combining the silent and spoken drama as presented by myself and company in 'The Sign of the Cross' would become universal," Beban wrote. "My reply was that in my opinion only about twenty per cent of the motion picture stars of today were, by virtue of previous stage experience, qualified to appear in a play combining both the screen and the stage. I did not say that the remaining eighty per cent were too dumb to do so."

"Lack of stage experience does not presuppose dumbness on the part of the screen artist. There are many instances of men and women, referring to the dramatic stage, who will be promising when called on to act before the camera."

The Tribune published Beban's letter in full in its columns devoted to communications without comment other than the head customarily placed over published communications. Over Beban's letter was printed: "He didn't know what Viola Dana was going to call him."

When told in Los Angeles of the Beban interview, Miss Dana was quoted as saying: "George Beban is a big piece of cheese."

COOLHEADEDNESS IS ESSENTIAL IN CASE
OF FIRE RULES SAYSome Suggestions Given in Case One is Caught in Fire.

In connection with Fire Prevention Week now being observed throughout the Nation the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has issued some practical suggestions concerning what to do in case of a fire. These suggestions follow:

"Whenever you go into a large building or auditorium or take a room in a hotel you should become acquainted with the location of the fire exits as soon as possible. Since many lives are lost due to ignorance of proper methods of getting out of a building quickly, it is advisable that everyone be prepared with the information in advance.

"If you happen to be in such a place when a fire occurs, keep from getting excited and use your best efforts to prevent excitement among those near you. If in a crowd, do not try to run or push your way through. It has always been found that a building can be emptied much more quickly if the occupants leave it in an orderly manner. Frequently, fires have brought disaster, not from the flames, but because of panic.

Running Fans Flames.
"If your clothes catch on fire, never attempt to run. Your movement simply fans the flames. The quickest and best method of extinguishing burning clothing is to roll the wearer in a rug or blanket, or any other heavy material. Care should be used to extinguish the flames around the face and head as soon as possible to prevent the wearer from inhaling the flames.

"If you are unfortunate enough to be caught in a burning building, remember that smoke and flames travel more quickly when there is a draft. It pays to think a moment of the results before throwing open windows and doors. A door opened at the wrong moment may cause smoke to rush into the room, overcoming the occupants or making their escape impossible. When leaving a burning room close the door. This will retard the spread of flames.

It is important to remember that it is natural for smoke to rise. There is always, therefore, less smoke near the floor; and in a burning room you will be safest if you keep your head as low as possible. The best method of leaving a room full of smoke is by crawling.

"In case of emergency a rope often can be quickly made out of bed sheets. It is important to remember, however, to tear the sheets in strips before tying them. In this manner one or two sheets will produce a rope of considerable length."

Monday
—AND—TuesdayAnother Extraordinary
Barthelmess TriumphRichard
Barthelmess
in
"The Bond Boy"From first to last—as powerful as "Tolable"
David

A SWINGING noose behind him! Blood-hounds baying in pursuit. And he on his knees to the girl whose honor he saved—asking now that she save him.

The greatest motion picture of Richard Barthelmess' screen career, excelling even his marvelous production of "Tolable David."

That is what we can promise without reservation for next week.

You'll love the hero for his chivalry to womankind, his honesty, his self-sacrifice and bravery. He's a humble hero, too, the son of aristocratic parents, forced by circumstances to bond himself out to the services of an unscrupulous farmer.

Your pulses will tingle and your breath will come fast also when you absorb the charming love story that threads its way to a happy conclusion through the tempestuous plot.

And when it's all over we know you'll agree with us that Richard Barthelmess is beyond all doubt the greatest masculine dramatic star of the screen today.

"The Bond Boy" is taken from George Washington Ogden's famous story, having been produced under the direction of Henry King. Mary Thurman, Mary Alden, Virginia Magee, Charles Hill Mailes, Ned Sparks, Lawrence D'Orsay and Lucia Backus Seger are among the talented players who appear in support of the star. This IS a masterpiece! So don't cheat yourself by missing one of the finest photo-plays ever made!
